HOT TOPICS
4 THE GEEKS

From 1964 to 1978, a crazy bloke known as "the Zodiac" used to hang around San Francisco dressed with a Knight Templar dress and a garly fat cross around his neck. Yeah, I know what you think. "No big deal," cunts from the KKK used to do this kind of stupid shit ages ago... True. What's particular with the Zodiac though is that he murdered 37 people. He also used to send letters to the police saying killing people is "even better than getting your rocks off with a girl" and making jokes like "Zodiac= 35, Police= 0." Toy manufacturer Schoken just released a toy of this never identified man whose story will be featured later this year in the new movie from David Fincher, the director of Seven.

RELEASE THE FREAKS

In terms of printing quality and innovations, Die Gestalten Verlag is probably the most exciting graphic design publisher in the world. The German company just happened to spin an online toy store called Release The Freaks! The ingeniousness is definitely there with a terrific 340 view feature offered for each toy presented on the website. www.firrrreaking.com

TOY FAIR 2007

With more than 1500 sales agents, manufacturers, distributors and importers from 30 countries, the American International Toy Fair is one of the largest toy trade shows in the world. The bad news is that the NYC 2007 edition just closed its doors on February 14. The good one is that some lonely nerds spent their Valentine's day shooting the event for us while we were trying to get laid with our date.
